Commercial Club Meets Tonight.

One of our town girls is preparing to elope on September 10th.

Don't go security for the man who lets his gate swing on one hinge.

"Life's Shop Window" the greatest production of the day at Romans Opera House Tonight (26th.)

"Fellow citizens," said the colored orator, "What am education." Education am the palladium of our liberties and the grand pandemonium of civilization."

Owing to the absence of Rev. F. M.
Tinder, who is holding a successful meeting at Mayville at this time, his pulpit will be filled at the Christian church next Sunday morning, by Rev.
Louis A. Warren of Lexington.

The Senior Christian Endeavors are preparing an excellent home talent play for the night of September 10th at the School Auditorium. These young people pledged the support of an orphan girl in school, and this is her third and last year.

WATERMELONS GALORE.

Twenty-five wagon loads of watermelons and cantaloupes were on our streets last Monday and seem to have ready sales at fabulous prices.

One cent a pound is usually considered a good price for the melons, but last Monday they seemed to average about five cents a pound.

SALE.

Attention is called to the public sale of the John W. Scott farm, located one half mile from Buena Vista, tomorrow, Friday. This farm contains 288 acres and besides this the live stock, farming implements, and furniture will fall under the hammer of Col. I. M. Dunn.
The land is one of the best producing tobacco and hemp ground in the state.

THE CLUTCHING HAND.

A great many of our friends failed to drop in to see us on court day, and paper and ink cost money. We are sending out notices to a great many of our subscribers and are being forced to drop some of them from our list. If your paper fails to come, don't ask the reason why, but let us have that dollar.

WHAT WOMEN WILL DO.

Suppose you tried to think what fashion never could do. Wouldn't you have fixed on furs in summer as the final impossibility? And yet they did wear furs this summer with the thermometer at 84, the humidity at 91, the breeze absent, and in that month in which the Bastille fell and the Declaration of Independence was signed!
Of course you left your coat at home during those dog days?

PROTRACTED MEETING.

Beginning at the Presbyterian church on September 12th and continuing for two weeks, bible services will be conducted under the leadership of Dr. A.
H. Hishman, of Lanark, Penn., who comes highly recommended and a great meeting is anticipated. It has been several months since a protracted meeting was held in Lancaster and it is hoped that much good will be accomplished through this good work.

SELLS FIRST LOAD.

The first load of alfalfa sold in the city was that sold last week by Homer Tinsley. It represented a part of his first cutting and sold at twenty dollars a ton in the bale. Mr. Tinsley has been quite successful with this crop and will make four cuttings from it this year. Quite a number of farmers are becoming interested in alfalfa and are now liming their land preparatory to sowing this month.

LOSES BARN.

Mr. Clarence Green, who lives near Cartersville, had the misfortune to lose his barn and several hundred dollars worth of contents, by fire last week the result of a stroke of lightning.
He lost all his farming implements, 240 bushels of wheat, two hundred bales of hay and other provender. His loss is about $2,000, with only $500. insurance. On the same day Ed and Jim Smith lost two horses by lightning.

BLUE RIBBON WINNER

Mrs. J. R. Mount has added more laurels to her culinary and art abilities by winning several blue ribbons at the Stanford fair last week. Her winnings were as follows: First on calico quilt, first on quart of peach preserves, first on quart canned peaches, first on canned pears and second on black cake.
Mrs. A. F. Sanders won first on crocheted counterpane, an honor of which she is very proud.

OLD HENRY WRECKED.

Although it is no uncommon occurrence for "Old Henry" to turn up at the Lancaster Depot ten or twelve hours late, due to a wreck, never the-less it is an uncommon thing for it to wreck as it did last Monday. To make a long story short it simply turned over spilling several cars of coal destined for Lancaster and Richmond. No one was hurt and a wrecking crew put the train in commission for the next days run.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The W. C. T. U. will hold its annual election of officers Saturday. All members are urged to be present.

WORK PROGRESSING.

The Raymond Construction Co., of Paris, who have charge of the repairing of the Court House, are making material progress with their work. The painting of the brick walls has about the brick walls has about been completed outside workwork. Work on the new cupola will begin this week.

DANDY PICTURES.

Some of the best pictures ever seen in Lancaster are now being shown at Roman's Opera House and that they are proving popular is evidenced by the crowds that are attending this house every night. The Fox features that have been running there for the past month or more are still in vogue and Mr. Romans is advertising some in this issue of the Record. You should see "Life's Shop Window" Thursday night and "St Elmo" on Saturday night, they are both Fox features and dandies.

WORK DELAYED ON ROADS.

The Stanford road from the Lincoln County line has been finished under state aid supervision as far as the Jim Wilmoth gate and the ditching has been finished the whole way to Lancaster.
Delay in receiving rock and bad weather have delayed the construction to a considerable extent. When the road is finished there will be no better in the State. Hughes Brothers who have the contract for macadamizing the Lexington road from the city limits to the Fork Church are crushing rock for that road from the A. B. Brown quarry.

MAY CALL CONGRESS.

While the President and his advisors are waiting for full official reports concerning the sinking of the British steamship Arabic and the drowning of five Americans, it is known that the Administration has already decided upon the course it will pursue if the details show that it was a "deliberately unfriendly." It was decided at the last note to Berlin.

It was learned that in the advent of an unfavorable reply that the President will dismiss the German Ambassador Von Bernstorff, and then call an extra session of Congress to consider the problem of national defense. In such a case it is reported that the President will ask for a vote of five hundred million dollars, to be used for the reorganization of the Army and Navy, and Coast defenses.

KENTUCKY RED BERKSHIRE

Create Much Interest At Stanford Fair.

One of the most interesting exhibits at the Stanford fair last week was the showing made by the Kentucky Red Berkshire hogs most of them owned in this county, where practically all of the first prizes were awarded. This is considered the coming hog by a great many people, many saying that they far outclass the Duroc so long popular in this section of the state. Messrs Woods Walker and son, the owners of Garrard Chief No. 1, were happy over their winnings, having won first aged sow, with "Lady of the Lake", first gilt under six months, with "Little Princess", first in sweepstake, with "Lady of the Lake" second aged boar,
"Garrard Chief" second in sweepstake,
"Little Princess", second in herd ring and first with "The Kentuckian" in best boar under six months. Robert J.
Walker of Pofft Lick, had his hogs in the pink of condition and captured many of the coveted prizes. His handsome hog "Wade Hampton" was the favorite of his class and won first prize as best boar under one year old.
"Wade Hampton" is by "Big Chief" dam "Florence W". Mr. Walker also won with "Florence Nightingale" for best sow under twelve and over six months. The most coveted prize of all went to Robt. J. Walker, when he captured the first prize herd, with "Wade Hampton", "Florence Nightingale", "Kittie Estell" and "Lena J." A. K.
Walker won second with aged sow "Lizzie". This is a fine individual and considered by many the best one in the show.

Mr. W. O. Walker of Stanford, while he only won second for gilt under six months with "Little Queen" he is the proud owner of "Walker's Queen" the dam of the champion boar, owned by G. G. Gooch, dam of the "Little Princess" and "The Kentuckian." Mr. W.
B. Denny was on hand with a dandy herd and while the best he could do was second for the best boar under six months. This was won by "Copper King" whom many thought should have won first in his class. Watch out for him next year. Mr. Denny also won second with "Lena J." far best gilt under twelve and under six months. Mr.
Denny bred and raised a great many of the winners at this show and is now the happy owner of "Fancy Lady" the dam of "Lady Of The Lake" and "Lena J."

There is quite a good deal of friendly rivalry between the breeders of this popular swine and the owners are all justly proud of the showing made at fair and of the growing popularity of the best breed of hogs that Garrard county has ever produced. Mr. J. G.
Burnside sold some nice boars last week to southern parties at fancy prices.

ACCEPTS PASTORSHIP

Rev. A. J. Clere To Lead Lancaster Baptist Church.

Those who had the opportunity to here Rev. A. J. Clere at the Baptist church here several months ago will be glad to learn that he has accepted the call from the local church and will assume the pastorate the first Sunday in September. We are glad to welcome this elegant gentleman and his family to Lancaster and hope that his success in his profession here will be as great as it has been in the past.

The following is clipped from the Wellston (Ohio) Sentinel:

"Rev. A. J. Clere officially announced to his congregation his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church Sunday morning, although his intimate friends were aware of the fact for a week or more. Rev. Clere who has been pastor of the Baptist church here for the past fifteen months will accept the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Lancaster, Ky., which city is located in the "Blue Grass Region" about thirty miles east of Lexington Kentucky, state is noted for its strong Baptist organizations and this church is considered one of the best and the "membership is greater than in this city although the town is much smaller.

While Rev. Clere was enjoying his vacation in Kentucky he was asked to supply the pulpit at Lancaster which he did for two Sunday's and the people were so well pleased with his sermons they later offered him the pastorate.

The Reverend Clere came to this city from Franklin, Ohio, succeeding Rev.
V. A. Persons who is now located in Toledo. He has been in Ohio nine years having served in Franklin a number of years and in Prospect for four years.

The tall Reverend is a native of Kentucky having been born and reared in Ashland and naturally desires to get back to his home state. He has the national brogue of a real "Kaintuck" which often aided him in driving facts home to his congregation. During his pastorate here he has made many loyal friends not only by his ministering to their spiritual needs but also by his personality. He is a brilliant orator and has a peculiar knack of using forcible English language that his listeners quickly caught and absorbed.

In order to give the officials of the church more time to select a minister to succeed him, Rev. Clere will occupy the pulpit two more Sundays, his resignation to take effect about the last of this month. The congregation and other friends of Rev. and Mrs.
Clere and family will no doubt greatly miss them but wish the Reverend success in his new appointment."

UNFERMENTED WINE

OR GRAPE JUICE.

At this season of the year when grapes are so plentiful, a recipe for unfermented wine is very timely and one that "Aunt Becky" West always used and recommended. It is as follows:
"Pick grapes, wash and put on stove, boil until seed come out and then put in sack and strain. To every quart of juice add on teaspoon of sugar. Boil and skim, put in jars or bottles and cork while hot."

SEVEN COUNTRIES DETERMINED TO RESTORE PEACE IN MEXICO

South and Central American Diplomats Give Valuable Aid to the Administration.

Something About the Men and Plans to Bring a Speedy End to Reign of Anarchy.

WATCHFUL waiting in Mexico is no more. The last rites over this policy were said at the conference between the Latin American diplomats and Secretary Lansing, at which it was decided that the United States, with the moral support and co-operation of Central and South American republics, should restore peace in that country, which has been robbed and looted by the various leaders who have been in power from time to time since the overthrow of Diaz.

The calling in of the South and Central American diplomats was lauded on all sides, but this was not the first time the United States had requested them to aid in Mexico. When our troops had been landed at Vera Cruz, with a large fleet in the harbor, and when the city had been put under military government the A. B. C. mediators at the meeting at Niagara Falls smoothed over the difficulties, and the policy of watchful waiting was resumed.

Conditions failed to improve, and the United States with the other republics on this continent has outlined a method of procedure which, briefly stated, follows:

First—An appeal was made to the Mexican factions to compose their differences in a convention or by such other means as they may regard as practicable.

Second—If any faction fails to observe this injunction the other factions will be expected to set up a government, pledging the conference to an endorsement of armed intervention in Mexico. But any armistices that may have existed were quietly by the secretary of state's explanation—afterward characterized by one of the conferees as "too delightfully simple"—that one of the warships was being sent down to take the place of that which is bringing the Brazilian minister up to the United States and that the other was merely moved as a matter of navy department routine.

The Latin American conferees appeared to have very little hope that the joint appeal would be effective in bringing about a solution of the Mexican problem, and nothing less than a flatfooted rejection of the peace proposal is expected from Carranza, who admittedly has obtained the upper hand in Mexico.

May Act as In Cuba.

After the invitation had been extended to the Latin American republics to assist the United States in a final ef-the position of attempting to dictate a form of government for Mexico.

Optimistic Feeling Prevails.

The feeling of optimism is shared in by all the South Americans who attended the conference. Representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay, Peru and Guatemala were present. These ambassadors were armed with the support of their respective countries.

But the only threatening feature to the policy is the actions of the Mexican bandits who are operating on the Texas border. Several Americans have recently been killed, and requests have been made for additional troops there. Major General Hugh L. Scott was sent to Mexico by the president to endeavor to preserve peace during the negotiations pending the foundation of the new government. He is holding frequent conferences with the leaders and looking after American interests during the proceedings.

Something about the South American diplomats who are adding is interesting at this time. Right from the start there was no quibbling, no hesitating over details. To those who believe that Latin America is still under the influence of the manana ("tomorrow") spirit the conferees have been a revelation. If it is the American custom to get down at once, on anything, to "brass tacks," so is it now apparently the Latin American custom as well. The plans are going ahead on a basis of pure business.

Da Gama a Hustler.

For this, it is asserted, due credit must be given to Ambassador da Gama. If there ever was a being to whom the term of "hustler" might be truly applied it is surely due to this quiet, forceful looking man from Brazil. A few inches under the average height, just a trifle inclined to stoutness, dignified in his every move, with a countenance that bespeaks a kindly shrewdness and with eyes that are constantly alert, he seems more the ideal American business type than the diplomat. Trained at the feet of one of the world's greatest diplomats of the modern school, Rio Branco, in whose suit he first came to the United States, he is quite the swiftest thing in the army, has his own private car built especially for him. While the cavalry horses back of the lines grow sleek from inaction, the aeroplanes have taken their places. All the romances and risk of scouting are theirs. Such of the cavalry's former part as the planes do not play Archibald plays. He keeps off the enemy's scouts. Do you seek team work spirit of corps and where are the old glories of war is lacking? You will find it in the attentants of Archibald.

The sport of war is not dead for Archibald. Here you see your target, which is so rare these days when British infantrymen have stormed and taken trenches without ever seeing a German, and the target is a bird—a man bird. Puffs of smoke with bursting hearts of death are clustered around the Taube. They hang where they broke in the still air. One follows another in quick succession—for more than one Archibald is firing—before your entranced eyes.

It is amazing how much shell fire an aeroplane can stand. Aviators are accustomed to the whizz of shell fragments and bullets and to have their planes punctured and ripped. Though their engines are put out of commission and frequently though wounded, they are able to volplane back to the cover of their own lines.

AIR CRAFT GUNNING SPORT OF THE WAR

Soldier That Does the Work Is Prince of Artillery.

"ARCHIBALD" IS A TERROR.

Allies Give Nickname to Their Busy Anti-air Craft Gun, Which is Removed From Place to Place in a Private Car—Aeroplanes Can Withstand Much Shell Fire.

A crack and a whizz through the air. No sound is more familiar at the front where the artillery is never silent—the sound of a shell breaking from a gun muzzle and its shrill flight toward the German line to pay them back for some shell they have sent, writes a correspondent from the British headquarters in France.

Only this which did not pass put over the landscape in a long parabola on toward the German lines. It went right up into the heavens at about the angle of a skyrocket, for it was Archibald who was on the job.

Six or seven thousand feet over the British trenches there was something as big as your hand against the light blue of the summer sky. This was the target—a German aeroplane.

Wings of Intelligence. Other features of life at the front may grow commonplace, but never the work of the planes—these wings of the army's intelligence. If they might fly as low as they pleased they might know all that was going on over the lines. They must keep up so high that through the aviator's glasses a man on the road is the size of a pinhead.

Archibald, the anti-air craft gun, sets the dead line. He watches over it as a cat watches a mouse. The trick of sneaking up under the cover of a noon-day cloud and all the other man bird tricks he knows.

A couple of seconds after that crack a tiny puff of smoke breaks about a hundred yards behind the Taube. The smoking brass shell case is out of Archibald's steel throat and another shell case with its charge slipped in its place and started on its way before the first puff breaks.

Archibald rushes the fighting. It is the business of the Taube to sidestep. The aviator cannot hit back except through its allies, the German batteries, on the earth. But all that the aviator can see is mottled landscape. From his side Archibald flies no goal flags.

Archibald's propensities are entirely peripatetic. He is the vagabond of the army lines. Locate him—and he is gone. He is the only gun which keeps regular hours like a Christian gentleman. All the others fire at any hour night or day. Aeroplanes do not go up at night, and when no aeroplanes are up Archibald has no interest in the war.

Why he was named Archibald nobody knows. As his full name is Archibald, the Archer, possibly it comes from some association with the idea of archery.

Has His Private Car. Archibald, who is quite the swiftest thing in the army, has his own private car built especially for him. While the cavalry horses back of the lines grow sleek from inaction, the aeroplanes have taken their places. All the romances and risk of scouting are theirs. ## The Comrade In White

Before the guns at Neuve Chapelle A gallant soldier fighting fell; Lost in the swirling tide. Woke from black dreams at dawn's gray light To find a comrade clothed in white Was kneeling at his side.

With tender care each wound he bound And wrapped with clean, soft linen round. And oh, his zeal was such That all the horror, all the pain The soldier would have faced again To feel that gentle touch!

From fire and shell the storm swept field Next morning no defense would yield When the new fight began. The guns would start at break of day. What friend was this who dared to stay And tend a dying man?

What friend was this? For where he knelt In silent prayer, the soldier felt— Or did he dream anew? That on his hands and feet and side Were drops of blood and, starting, cried, "But you are wounded too!"

Sad were those mystic, wondrous eyes That watched another morning rise Over the scene of hate. Yet smilingly stooped to say, "These are old, world old, wounds, but they have troubled me of late."

ARRAS A HEAP OF DEBRIS; 120 OF 26,000 PEOPLE LEFT

Belgian Minister Describes Desolation of Historic City.

"I have just visited what remains of Arras and Soissons, along the Aisne scarps. Of Arras, like also some of the first line trenches Nieport and Ypres, our poor villages along the Yser, nothing remains but a heap of debris," writes Emile Vandervelde, the Belgian minister of state, to papers in the United States.

"The city hall, that gem of medieval architecture, has undergone the most grievous mutilation. In many streets not a single house is intact. Arras had before the war 26,000 inhabitants. There are now 120. In a small shop near the city hall I found a little old man cheerfully selling funeral crowns and post cards depicting the ruins. The bombardment continues daily. Most people are living in cellars.

"At Soissons I was entertained by a general at ten and at breakfast in the cellar. Bombs continuously passed over Soissons in the direction of Arras. The allied troops constantly are busy extending and strengthening the trenches and building wire defenses. At certain places the hostile lines are within sixty feet of each other.

"When not exchanging shots and grenades the soldiers enjoy the intervals of comparative calm, during which newspapers weighted with stones are thrown from one trench to another. "One day a dog crossed to the French lines bearing the message, 'Please tell Corporal Blank that his wife and children at Lens are well and send him love.'"

ACCUSED OF MURDER IN 19013

Wyoming Man Would Escape Death Because of Clerk's Error.

Because through an error of a court clerk he is charged with committing a murder 17,068 years in the future, George Wilson White of Wyoming has appealed to the United States supreme court to save him from the hanging to which he has been sentenced.

White was convicted of "killing one Anderson Coffee on or about the 12th day of August, 1913." That was the way the information should have read, but after he had been condemned to hang on June 4 of this year White's lawyers discovered that the official papers returned by the grand jury gave the date of the murder as "Aug. 12, 19013."

Because of that "0," which, it was alleged, made the information insufficient and defective, White appealed to the Wyoming supreme court and before the day of the hanging arrived obtained a writ of supersedeas under which the case has been brought to the United States supreme court.

ROBERTS WORKS IN LAUNDRY

Former Mayor of Terre Haute Claimed to Wash Clothes Were Washed.

When Donn M. Roberts, ex-mayor of Terre Haute, Ind., convicted of election frauds, was brought to the federal penitentiary the officials tried to show him all possible leniency by putting him at clerical work.

Roberts' laundry was not done to suit him one day, and he went to the prison laundry to complain. "Do you think it could be done any better?" the superintendent asked. "I see no reason why it shouldn't," the ex-mayor replied. "I'd think anybody could do better work than this."

"Well, then, you're just the man we want. Get to work."

Ex-Mayor Roberts now washes prisoners' clothes.

ELEVEN CENT STAMP OUT.

The new eleven cent postage stamp has appeared. It bears the head of Franklin in profile, from Houdon's bust, and is printed in dark green ink. It is the same shape and size as the ordinary stamps, series of 1911.

The new stamp is issued primarily for use in prepaying postage on parcels and postage and insurance fee on insured parcels amounting to 11 cents.

MODERN TORPEDO TERRIBLE WEAPON

Weights 2,800 Pounds and Is Twenty-three Feet Long.

COST IS $3,000 TO $9,000.

Will Tear Through Side of a Double Skinned Ship and Then Explode. Loaded Only With High Explosive, Either Guncotton or Nitroglycerin. What Happens as It Strikes Prey.

The up to date torpedo is a loaded automobile shaped like a cigar, made to run in a certain direction in a fixed time and explode when it strikes something that offers sharp resistance. A reliable one, properly equipped with explosives and running gear, costs from $3,000 to $9,000, according to size. A large torpedo is twenty-three feet long, twenty-one inches in diameter and weighs 2,800 pounds and it tears a hole 30 by 10 feet in the bottom of a ship of two skins.

"The torpedo," said an expert of the navy, "has four principal parts—the war head, which carries the explosive; the air flask or fuel chamber, the engine and the steering gear and the balance chamber. The explosive head is filled with some high explosive—guncotton, etc.—and is provided with a percussion detonator. This strikes a hard or solid substance, and the explosive goes off instantaneously.

Guncotton or Nitroglycerin. "The explosive head is the foremost compartment of the torpedo and contains the deadly charge and the pistol with which it is fired. Guncotton and nitroglycerin are the high explosives generally used for submarine purposes. There are many others, but these form the foundation for most of them. Gunpowder of the sort used by the country boy to shoot at a rabbit or a squirrel is no longer used. The high explosive is more powerful than gunpowder. Gunpowder burns quicker than the high explosive, and it splutters around if scattered on the ground, but it explodes if confined in a close place. The high explosive will burn if you stick a match to it, but not so easily as gunpowder. A sudden blow will apply heat to an explosive and set it off.

"The explosive head strikes the bottom of a ship, and a 'detonation,' not an 'explosion,' takes place. The mass of high explosive seems to explode at once, and that is what is desired, as the most sudden blow will knock a hole in the ship. Guncotton is detonated by fulminate of mercury, which, when ignited by a blow, expands 2,500 times its original size. The sudden expansion gives a blow to the guncotton that detonates it."

This Is What Happens.

"What happens when the explosive head strikes?" "A detonation follows instantaneously and blows the outside of the ship in, making a hole about 30 by 10 feet in size. There is no rule about the extent of the damage to the side of the boat. It may be twice 30 by 10 feet. The blow drives in both the outer and inner skins of a vessel like the Lusitania. The double bottom is not sufficient to break the force of the torpedo if it strikes well. A glancing blow may not cause an explosion.

"The torpedo would have about the same effect on a collier that it would on a big merchant vessel. We have never tested thoroughly the effect of a torpedo blown through an oil tanker such as the Gulfport. We are doing that now. "After the torpedo struck it would be blown to bits, and most of the pieces would go to the bottom of the sea. Some fragments might go inside and become entangled in the splinters made by the detonation.

"The torpedo must do many things in a very thoroughgoing way. It cannot succeed in its mission if a cog slips on the way, for it is primed for automatic action. Everything must be just right and in its proper place when it starts on its journey of destruction. It has to run at a certain speed so as to get to its destination on schedule time, to go a certain calculated distance in that fixed time, and travel in a certain direction to make sure of its mark. It cannot loaf, vary from the course outlined for it or dip down or shoot up on the way. If anything goes wrong all is off with that torpedo, and the thousands of dollars invested in it disappear beneath the waves.

"Torpedoes run from 1,000 to 10,000 yards to reach the object they are sent to destroy. It requires about eleven minutes to make the longer distance. "What if the torpedo struck a whale on the way?"

"It would be bad for the whale, although the torpedo might not explode unless a big solid bone was hit."

Of Many Sorts.

"The torpedo is not known intimately by many naval officers," said one specialist. "There are all sorts of torpedoes. Some of them have individuality. No two seem to be exactly alike. We continually improve our knowledge of them. Each torpedo has to be carefully studied and corrected for its own voyage of destruction. Like the bee that stings, it gives up its life for one sting. The ship it strikes sinks. The 200 pounds of ammonium in its warhead tears the ship so that it cannot escape. It is the most terrible weapon of warfare known to the world."

PENNEID IN

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

There is an infinite number of islands in the Pacific ocean, and there is a diversity of condition among the inhabitants of the different islands. Fifty years ago I knew more about them than I do now. When I was a boy of eighteen I shipped on a small steam vessel running from San Francisco among these islands, trading by the way. The captain, Simpson, was then quite an old man and had sailed among them for a number of years. He knew the character of the people of the different islands and told us that, while most of them were approachable, there were a few at which he would not care to touch unless with a numerous crew and with plenty of arms and ammunition.

During one of our voyages he had had luck from the start. Our crew was a small one when we left San Francisco. Two men were taken ill within a week after we left, and both died. Another fell down an open hatchway, and still another was washed overboard and lost.

We had passed the Hawaiian Islands and crossed the equator not far from the international date line when we struck a northeaster that drove us to a point directly north of the Fijis. During the storm we shipped a sea that drove one man headfirst against the bulwarks and washed another one overboard. This left us the captain, the mate and three seamen. Hardly had the storm blown itself out when something about the firebox gave out and we were obliged to let the fires go down in order to find out what it was. We had sail enough to keep steering way, but no more.

Just before the captain gave the order to put out the fires I noticed him looking intently at an island lying off our port bow and heard him tell the mate that he believed it to be one from which on a previous voyage he had narrowly escaped with his life. Having found the natives bent on plunder and ready to strike any weak crew that came within their reach, he did not relish the idea of putting out the fires in that locality.

However, there was no choice in the matter, and when the firebox had cooled down one of our number went into it for an examination. Unfortunately the wind was blowing straight toward the island. Presently we saw a number of canoes coming out from the shore. The captain looked grave. Under sail we couldn't make four knots, and we were too few to defend ourselves against the swarm of dusky men who were coming for us. The mate suggested that they were only coming out for trade or to beg and wouldn't harm us. The captain said he knew better; they would murder us, take what they wanted and either get the ship to the shore or sink her.

The only chance there seemed to be for us was to hide. We all went down and got into the firebox, where a man was working, and closed the door. The hatch fell and could be opened only from the outside. But this didn't trouble us, for the man who had been at work had his tools, and when we wanted to get out it would be possible for him to bore a hole near the hatch so that it could be lifted.

The furnace room was pretty dark, and since we all packed ourselves in the far end of the firebox we were not likely to be seen except by a pair of first rate eyes. We waited in suspense till we heard men tramping about above. They must have been surprised to find the vessel deserted, but delighted as well, considering that there was much plunder for them. We heard them everywhere, evidently collecting what they wanted. The door of the firebox was opened twice, but whoever opened it shut it again without taking the trouble to make an examination.

The visitors remained on board till we began to feel the vessel rolling considerably; then the sounds suddenly ceased. It was evident that the sea was getting rough, and they did not dare stay longer. Then Captain Simpson directed the man who had been repairing the firebox to drill a hole so that the hatch could be lifted.

Boring a hole in wood and iron are two different things. The one can be done in seconds; the other may take hours. The man had been drilling some time when we began to feel water on the firebox floor. Bringing the light workman had with him, and by which he was drilling, to bear on the floor, we saw water trickling in at several points.

Every man of us paled. The ship had been scuttled, and we were penned in to be carried to the bottom. The man who was drilling had splendid nerve. He did not lose his head, but kept steadily on, conscious of the fact that he must make an opening before the ship sank and not knowing how soon she would sink. When he was nearly through, removing his drill and putting in a steel implement, he hammered it through. In a few minutes he inserted his fingers and lifted the hatch.

The water had made considerable headway, but not so much that it could be seen pouring through an auger hole in the side. We plugged it and, rushing on deck, saw that we had been blown past the island and were drifting away from it. Then we manned the pumps for awhile, completed the work in the firebox and in due time were once more steaming safely on.

USE OF COLOR.

How to Employ It Successfully in Home Furnishings.

In no other field has the right use of color been so neglected as in the furnishing of the American home, and nowhere else could its influence be so wide or beneficent. The use of color has countless possibilities.

The individual, spontaneous choice of color, however, is not always best or wisest in the furnishings of a home. First, the mental influences of color must be taken into account. Consider, for example, the effects of the three elemental primary colors—yellow, red and blue.

Yellow is nearest to sunlight. Morbid dispositions require this color, although they do not choose it. Yellow brings cheer and light into a dark, gloomy room.

Red is symbolic of blood, fire and excitement. Even an animal is excited by red, for the sight of it actually irritates the nerves. Therefore, since the keynote of all homes should be rest, and red in any large area destroys restfulness, it should be handled with special caution. It may be introduced successfully into drawing rooms, club-rooms and dance halls, where gaiety and a certain amount of excitement are desirable, but for other interiors it should be employed only in occasional details.

Rarely in public buildings and almost never in private homes is a red room advisable. Blue is the coldest color note and makes a room restful and cool. For this reason it is especially pleasing in warm sections of the country, in summer homes, in sunny south rooms and also in bedrooms—for it is always suggestive of rest. An entirely blue room may prove rather monotonous, but this can be avoided by the introduction of orange, the complementary color, as a decorative note. The orange adds both warmth and interest.

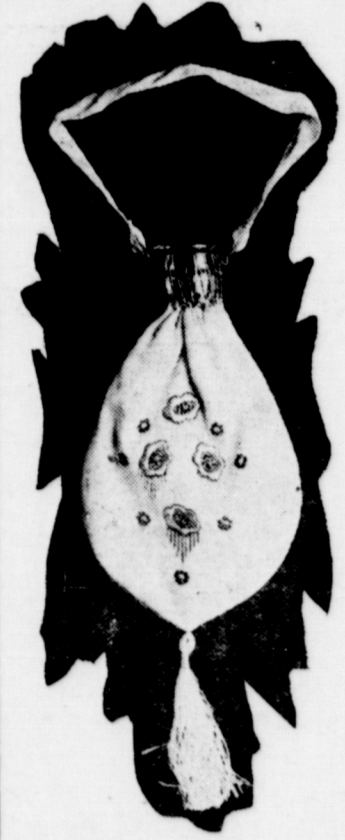

Orange, the combination of yellow and red, is symbolic of light and heat, which makes it the hottest color possible. Since it is the strongest and most intense of colors, it should be used only in small areas for emphasis. Violet, composed of red and blue, suggests heat and cold combined, which results in ashes. It is the color of shadows; it expresses restrained heat or mystery and gloom, and this is the psychological reason for its use in mourning and in religious rites. The use of violet is not often practical in home furnishings, although it may be used to dim a room having too much sunlight. Violet hangings are pleasing where there is a large window exposure.

Green, the result of mixing yellow and blue, expresses light and coolness. Generally speaking, it is the most successful color that can be used in interior furnishing, for it eliminates the nerve exciting red and combines rest and cheer, than which nothing can be better for a home.

To Preserve Linen.

A very excellent plan for preserving linens and underware and one which was used successfully by a very good housekeeper is to place the fresh articles as they come from the laundry at the bottom of the pile in sideboard, dresser or linen chest, leaving the earlier ones on top. In this way the same articles are not used week after week.

It will thus be seen that the wear and tear is less than if they were in use constantly and going through weekly washings, as is sometimes the case if no system is used in piling them away.

If this plan is strictly adhered to it will be found of inestimable value.

A WISE JUDGE

By OSCAR COX

When the war between the states ended and the colored man was endowed with citizenship a grave responsibility was placed upon him for which he wasn't prepared. In one of those regions where the negroes were very numerous and white men very few one of the former found himself in possession of a justice's court.

The makeup of this dispensary of justice was somewhat crude. A judge was found who had done the cleaning of the courthouse, a prosecuting attorney in one who had belonged to a lawyer, but for counsel no one could be obtained except a few dummies who had been tried for various offenses and had by observing lawyers' methods picked up here and there bits of court routine.

Moses Doggett, late the property of Colonel Redfield Doggett, was the judge before whom a negro with no other name, so far as was known, than Pete was brought on a charge of having killed his wife, Susan. She as the principal witness was called to the stand.

"Tell the cou't wha' Pete gone done to you," said the judge.

"Pete he de mos' good fo' nuttin nigger in de state of Alabama. Now he got free he 'tink he hain't got nuttin to do but sit out in de sun an' sleep. I says to Pete, 'Git up an' go to w'k. How yo' spee' dese chill'n gwine to git anyting to eat ef yo' don't earn nuttin?' Pete he say: 'Y' hain't got no w'k. Yo' go on wid de washin', an' I tak' it to de owner an' bring back de pay.' I jist pick up a rollin' pin, an' I split it on he skull."

"Yo' honah," said the defendant's counsel, "I thought it was Pete mistreated Susan, not Susan mistreated Pete."

"Yo', Pete," said the judge, "yo' take de stan' an' tell de cou't yo' side ob de question."

Pete obeyed the order and stood rolling his eyes about till admonished to speak in his defense of the charge made by his wife.

"Hain't got no wife," he said.

"Hain't got no wife? How dat?"

"Ma wife, Chloe, wha' I married fus' down in Louisiana, air de only wife I got. When I was sold an' separated from her an' de chill'n ma heart was broke. De nex' year I married one ob de nigger women belongin' to ma new master."

"Yo' didn't get no divorce from yo' fus' wife?" asked the defendant's counsel.

"I didn't get no divorce. I jist married ag'in. Two years after dat ma master lose a cotton crop an' we was all sold out, me an' ma wife bein' sold to different masters. Den I married anudder wife."

"An' yo' didn't get no divorce from de second wife?" asked Pete's counsel.

"No, sah. I didn't get no divorce from de second wife. I didn't keer fo' no divorce from none ob 'em. Ma heart was true to ma fus' wife, Chloe."

"How many wives have you got?" asked the prosecuting attorney, with a view to condensing this diffuse statement.

"I don't know. I had de bad luck to change masters mighty often, an' every time I was sold I married a new wife."

"Is Susan de las'?"

"Sue, she de las'."

"Yo' honah," said defendant's counsel.

"I ask fo' de discha'ge ob de prisoner on de groun' dat he couldn't mistreat his wife when he hain't married to de wife he mistreated."

"How many husbands have you got, Susan?" asked the judge.

"I got one in Mobile, anudder in New Orleans an' anudder somewha' in Souf Carolina."

"How do you know they are in those places?"

"I don't. I married 'em dar."

The judge looked up at the boards which constituted the ceiling in mute deliberation. He was a grave looking old dandy and in his heart aimed to be just. But the problem was how to be just legally. The two in this case seemed incompatible.

"De persecutin' attorney will sum up, an' de counsel fo' de prisoner will sum up, den de cou't will giv he decision."

"I hain't got nuttin' to say," said the prosecutor. "Yo' dat Pete won't w'k, an' his wife an' chill'n am starvin'. De cou't oughter make him w'k or go to jail."

"An' I hain't got nuttin' to say," said the prisoner's lawyer, "ce'pt dat in de fus' place Sue an' Pete hain't married, Pete bein' true to Chloe, somewha' in de souf. In de secon' place, it wa'n't Pete dat mistreated Sue, but Sue mistreated Pete when she split de rollin' pin on his head."

The judge again looked at the boards above, rolled his eyes and finally gave his decision.

"De new law of marriage among us niggers since he 'manicipation' proclamation am different from de ole law. Under de new law Sue am Pete's wife, an' he bou't to tak' keer ob her an' de chillun. De cou't derefo' decides dat Pete got to go to w'k or go to jail."

"I 'peal de case," cried Pete's counsel.

"Yo' kin jist go on 'pealin' de case till kingdom come," said the judge.

"Pete, yo' go to w'k. Sue, ef he don't go to w'k yo' split anudder rollin' pin on his head."

"I hain't got no mo' rollin' pins, but I got some flatirons."

"De cou't decides dat flatirons am as legitimate am rollin' pins. Call de cex' case."

TENNESSEE OFFICIAL WINS LONG FIGHT

J. W. Seaton, Clerk of the Circuit Court of the Twelfth Judicial District of Tennessee, was for years a sufferer from stomach troubles—in part a result of his confining work. He tried doctor after doctor. He tried medicines without end.

One day he took a dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He wrote: "Your medicine is the best in the world for any form of stomach trouble. I am glad to say that after taking the full treatment I feel that I am well."

"I had very severe pains in my stomach all the time. One bottle of your medicine did me ten times as much good as all the doctors' medicines that I took for two years. My family physician told me that I would never be any better—today I am well. I have gained twenty-five pounds."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

We Think So, Too.

"Charles, you're spending too much money this year. Too many dances, too many clothes, too many taxis, too many—"

"Well, father, I'll tell you now I look at it. It seems to me that every family ought to be able to support one gentleman." —Cornell Widow.

Found Wanting.

A New York visitor called us a "hick" because we have never seen a game of golf, but at the same time he confessed that he never saw a watermelon on the vine and couldn't tell when one was ripe. He was indignantly dismissed from our bucolic presence.—Houston Post.

A Hint to Speeders.

"Ya-as," said the Maine Philosopher, as the touring car flashed through the town at a forty mile clip, "ez the Post Pifficus once said to his lady friend Amnesia, them ez bikes too rapid on the ruds of life lose a lot o' fust-class briled lobster that might be et on the way."

There's a Difference.

An enterprising gentleman of the breezy West, who superintends the "railroad eating house" in his town, has recently hung out a sign that furnishes considerable amusement to those who pass by, says Lippincott's. It reads: "Fies like mother used to make, five cents; pies like mother used to try to make, ten cents."

Ancient Dentistry.

Dentistry seems to have been practiced on this side of the ocean almost as early as in Europe or Asia. It is quite likely, indeed, that the art of filling teeth was first discovered here. At any rate, pre-Columbian skulls from both Ecuador and Mexico are in evidence having teeth richly inlaid with gold and in some instances precious stones.

Banana Juice for Snake Bite. In snake-infested countries banana juice is being exploited for snakebite. To test the efficiency of this simple remedy, F. W. Fitzsimmons experimented with the venom of cobra, puff adders and other serpents, trying the banana juice upon animals bitten by the snakes. In no case could he discover that the alleged "cure" had any beneficial effect.

The End of It All.

Measuring things by dollars, by hours, by pounds and yardsticks, measures everything accurately enough except the one thing we wish to measure, which is a man's soul. We are producing the material things of life faster, more cheaply, more shoddily, but it is open to question whether we are producing happier men and women, and that is what we are striving to do at the end of it all.

Diplomacy.

"Look here, Charlie," said one young undergrad to another, who had been asked to run his eye over a letter which his friend had written to his father, in which there was the inevitable request for money, "you've spelled jug, g-u-g!" "I know," said Charlie; "but you see I need the cash, and don't want the old man to think I'm putting on airs. That's how he spells it."

Forty Years in Stock.

The latest coincidence which has just come to my knowledge (writes a correspondent) befell an elderly gentleman well known in literary circles. Wishing to refer to a book he had used in his school days, he visited the second-hand shop in Charing Cross road which specializes in this class of work. On inquiry he found they had one copy of the volume in stock. When he opened it he found on the front page his own name written there well over forty years ago.—Pall Mall Gazette.

FISCAL COURT OF ## GARRARD COUNTY.

Sealed proposals addressed to the Fiscal Court of Garrard County will be received up to 12 o'clock noon, September 8th, 1915, when they will be publicly opened and read, for the improvement of the county road between Fork Church and Jessamine County line on Lexington pike in Garrard County known as Section No. 3, State Aid Road.

The work, as described and shown in the plans and specifications to be seen at County Judge's office will be known as Garrard County State aid road as shown on general drawing.

Bids must be for work to be done in accordance with the plans and specifications approved by the Fiscal Court and the Commissioner of Public Roads, and on file at County Judge's Office.

The Fiscal Court of Garrard County expressly reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Before contracts are binding on first parties, they must receive the approval of the Commissioner of Public Roads.

Each bid shall be accompanied by cash or a certified check, payable at sight to the order of the County Treasurer for 10 per cent of the amount of the proposal; which check shall be held until the execution of the contract.

Before the contract is awarded, the successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish a bond of an equal amount of contract for the faithful performance of the work in accordance with the aforesaid plans and specifications.

All work to be done under the direction and supervision of the Commissioner of Public Roads.

By order of Fiscal Court of Garrard County.

J. W. HAMILTON,
Clerk Garrard County.

FOURTH-CLASS POST-

MASTER EXAMINATION.

Saturday, September 11th, 1915.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that on the date named above an examination will be held at Richmond, Ky., as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth-class postmaster at Paint Lick, Ky., and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interest of the service to fill the vacancy by reinstatement. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $675 for the last fiscal year.

Age limit, 21 years and over on the date of the examination, with the exception that in a State where women are declared by statute to be of full age for all purposes at 18 years, women 18 years of age on the date of the examination will be admitted.

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the post office for which the examination is announced.

The examination is open to all citizens of the United States who can comply with the requirements.

Application forms and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at Paint Lick, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Applications should be properly executed and filed with the Commission at Washington at least seven days before the date of the examination, otherwise it may be impracticable to examine the applicants.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

The annual conference of the Methodist church will convene next Wednesday at Millersburg. Bishop Atkins will preside at this conference and Rev. S.
H. Politt of this city will attend.

POSTMASTERS WANTED.

The Post Office Department at Washington has notified Congressman Helm that the Inspector sent to Garrard County has failed to find suitable applicants for the position of postmaster at Buckeye, Coy. Marksburg and Flat-wood, and that each and all of these offices will be discontinued at an early date unless reliable persons come forward and are willing to assume the duties of postmasters at said points. If the offices are discontinued they will be supplied by the carriers on rural routes established and about to be established.

WOULD MAKE IT FELONY.

A law, making it a felony for a man to desert his wife or child, will be advocated by George L. Sehon, of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, at the next session of the General Assembly. Mr. Sehon, who was at Frankfort making his annual settlement with the State Auditor, said that sixty-five per cent of the wards of the society had been deserted. The society received several the past week whose fathers had deserted them. There are now 207 children in the institution at Louisville, the largest number in its history.
He attributes the increase to the economic conditions of last year.

JUDGE CARROLL HERE.

The many friends of Judge John D.
Carroll of Newcastle, Judge of the Court of Appeals representing this Appellate District, were glad to see that gentleman and his wife here last week.
Judge Carroll has been spending a week in Crab Orchard and motored down to attend the day with friends here. The Judge's many friends throughout the district hope to see him remain a member of Kentucky's highest court as long as he wishes, but in the case of a vacancy on the Federal Court bench, they feel that the President could do no better than to appoint Judge Carroll.

GOOD REVIVAL

Speaking of the revival at Freedom church, Mrs Leslie Sebastian, said: We have just closed a great meeting at old Freedom church. We had twenty additions for baptism and five by restoration and letter. It was an old fashioned meeting. People came for miles in two-horse wagons, horse-back buggies and any way to get there.
Evangelist J. L. Dotson, of Harrodsburg, did the preaching and I think he is one of the best personal workers I ever saw. He knows his business (the bible) and he knows how to go after men and women for the service of our Lord. May God help him in his great work. A neat little sum of $65. was given him.

MCCARTY.

The burial of Midshipman William McCarty, of Stanford, Ky. who died on board the battleship Ohio at San Francisco August 16, will take place in Lexington Cemetery Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The funeral services will be held in Stanford, at the home of his father J. M. McCarty, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. William McCarty was formerly a student at State University and had many friends in this city and section. He had just completed the summer cruise on the Ohio and the ship had arrived at San Francisco to participate in the exposition ceremonies when he was stricken with a fatal attack of spinal meningitis.
Midshipman McCarty was given full military honors in the services on shore at San Francisco a week ago and two hundred officers and men accompanied the body. A salute of one hundred guns was fired from the batteries of the warship before the body started on its long trip across the continent to its resting place in Kentucky. Friends of Midshipman McCarty have given two beautiful floral wreaths which were made up by a local florist. One is a pillow of white asters and roses with the letters, "U. S. S. Ohio" across the face. The other is an anchor made from pink asters and lilies, lettered "Classmates".—Lexington Leader.

SCHOOL OPENING.

The Lancaster Graded Schools will open Monday and it is especially urged that all pupils be present on that day.
Parents are cordially invited to visit the school at all times, especially at the opening of the session.

AID FOR FARMERS

Will Be Given By Treasury Department.

Secretary McAdoo announced, in view of the action of the Allies in putting cotton on the contraband list, that he would, if it became necessary, deposit $30,000,000 or more in gold in the Federal Reserve banks at Atlanta, Dallas and Richmond in order that loans on cotton may be rediscounted.

SCHOOL TERM INCREASED.

State Superintendent Hamlett has announced that the per capita apportionment of the school fund for the common schools of Kentucky would be increased now from $4.50 to $5.25 and that the school term will be lengthened one month. The present school law permits the lengthening of the term whenever the per capita reaches $4.75.
The State school fund is apportioned to the counties and cities at so much per capita for every child between the ages of 6 and 21. The present per capita of $4.50 is the highest in the history of the State.

ACCEPTS POSITION

most efficient and accommodating sales-ladies that has ever been in this city, has accepted a position with J. E.
Dickerson's Dry Goods store at Lancaster. Mrs. Bailey has for the last six months been with G. M. Lyons of this city, but this store will be moved to Mt. Sterling soon.—Stanford Interior Journal.

COURT DAY CROWD SMALL

Not Much Doing In The Trading Line.

Last Monday brought only a medium crowd to town and had it not been that on this day that Circuit court also opened, a much smaller crowd would have shown up. There were about three hundred cattle on the market and most of them changed hands at satisfactory prices. Trading in mules was limited to a few head and no mule colts were sold at any price.

The following were some of the purchases made. Louis Peal, of Nicholasville, ten head of 400 pound cattle at $22 a head, George Peal six head at $23 a head. J. K. Sanders of Emmet Burton twenty calves at $30 a round and
B. Hensley of same party 23 head at $22 each. Ross and Carrier, 54 hogs, average 150 pounds, at 7 1/2 cents.
S. A. Hill sold 2 calves to Archie Dean Bradshaw for $35 a head. Isom Bros. sold one mule for $160. Whitehouse and Johnson bought of T. W. Jones, 140 sheep at $5.75 a round. W. W. West to Robinson and Pose 11 calves at $22.
T. C. Rankin to D. C. Rankin 60 head of feeding cattle for 7 1/2 cents. R. I.
Burton to Gay Bros 22 head of feeders at 7 1/2 and R. L. Burton 14 head to same parties for 8 cents. G. B. Bruner bought of Emmet Burton, 14 head of 500 pound cattle at $30 a round and same parties bought of Perry Ballard 86 120 pound hogs, price 7 1/2 cents. J.
Lee Murphy bought three nice heifers at $35 each and sold 10 at $25 each. J.
D. Wynn, of Paint Lick, sold to Sam Mullins, pair of two year old mules for $300. W. B. Burton bought a horse of Mose Ray, for $100 and one of H. W.
McAfee, Logan Thompson and Naylor Bros. for each one he paid $100. Center Bros. proved to have one a little better, for which he paid $110.

Our Advice Is:
When you feel out of sorts from constipation, let us say that if Jexall Orderlies
do not relieve you, see a physician, because no other home remedy will.

HAS BUSY DAY.

Monday was a busy day in the Police Court, for Chief of Police Buck had succeeded in rounding up a number of offenders. Grover Schooler, who lives at Hyattsville, was lodged in jail Saturday night, and was fined $25 and costs and given ten days in jail, on a charge of shooting a pistol in the city limits. Immediately after the verdict, he left for parts unknown.

Ed Anderson, Les Anderson, "Snip", Simpson, Chiddy Perkins and Jerdin Schooler, all colored, were arranged with a charge of gambling. The two Andersons, being old offenders, were fined one hundred and the costs, and the other three were given twenty dollar fines. Agnes Faulkner, colored, was fined twenty five dollars on a charge of fighting and disturbing the peace.
Wm. Burton, colored, was fined ten dollars and costs for disorderly conduct.
It is to be hoped that these convictions will have the effect of putting a damper on the feelings of that class who persist in causing a disturbance on Saturday night, and that those confined to the jail will be put to work.

FOR BIRD PROTECTION.

There is a scheme now on foot where by it will be possible for the posting against hunting for a period of three years of about two thousand acres in Garrard county. It is the plan of the originators to have the farmers owning land lying between the Danville and Stanford pikes to enter an agreement neither to hunt birds themselves nor to allow any hunting on these farms for a period of three years. If such a plan can be worked out it is believed that the State game warden will supply other English pheasants and quail to stock this preserve. This has been tried in other States, particularly in Connecticut and Massachusetts, where quail were almost extinct, with great success. The RECORD will be glad to help this plan in any way possible and will publish the list of farms posted free of charge.

The following is a list of property owners between Danville pike and Railroad to the Dix river. Call at this office and let us know if you are willing to enter this agreement.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES.

The term of the Garrard Circuit Court, which was postponed from June on account of the many requests of the farmers, was opened Monday with Judge Chas. A. Hardin on the bench and Commonwealth's Attorney, Emmett Purveyar at his post. The Judge in his address to the Grand Jury asked their help and cooperation in the enforcement of the law and in the impartial consideration of the cases brought before them. The following jury, empaneled at the June term was again summoned and is as follows:

GRAND JURY.
William Simpson Sr., Hayden Leavell, John Williams, T. L. Yantis, J. Wade Walker, James Green,
Joe Criscillis, Jno M. Duncan,

REGAINS FORMER

LIFE AND ENERGY

Miss F. B. Robinson Tells How She Benefited From Tanlac.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25th.—Miss Finnie B. Robinson, of the millinery firm of Robinson & Blomer, at 1628 West Market street, this city a successful and widely known business woman, says she found relief from Tanlac after trying other remedies with no permanent benefit.

"I was in a rundown condition," she explained recently, "and I seemed to have very poor circulation. I suffered from severe headaches, and my sleep was uncertain. I was nervous and lacked energy.

"I tried different physicians and different remedies, without getting any real relief. One day a friend said to me, 'Why not get a bottle of Tanlac?' Everyone says it is fine. I feel that I owe a great deal to the person who suggested that to me. My trouble has disappeared since I began taking this medicine. I am full of energy and vigor, eat heartily, and sleep like a child. My nerves are in fine shape, and my friends have noticed what a change has come over me. Tanlac did it all, and I am glad to say so publicly."

Tanlac, the peerless preparation, is of especial value for its tonic qualities.
In cases of languor, poor appetite, sleeplessness, faulty circulation, catarrh troubles and rheumatism it has proved of remarkable benefit, as scores have testified.

This remedy is now on sale in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts drug store, and in Bryantsville by Becker, Ballard and Scott.

PRACTICAL ROADS.

The "Country Gentleman" makes the sensible suggestion that a prodigious waste of land, and a recklessly heavy maintenance cost, be avoided by American roadmakers. Upon a four rod government highway "one dozen farm wagons could be, by a little crowding, set side by side" and each mile of government highway contains eight acres of land, "much of it good land, capable of growing 500 bushels of corn," while thousands of miles of the best highways of France, Germany and England are but one rod wide.

The Country Gentleman objects to Iowa devoting 415,000 acres of "the best farming land in the world" to growing a sufficient assortment of weeds to seed the farms that he along the State's 104,000 miles of public road.

It may be added that a well-maintained road a rod or a rod and a half wide, with trees along either side is much more agreeable to drive over than a road three or four rods wide which can never be shaded and must always be an intolerable hot sun reflector during summer. Left unseeded, it is glaring and trying to the eyes. Oiled, it gives off heat like a stove. It would cost much less to line every mile of public road with forest trees whose spreading branches would in time shade the entire road, than to make the macadam surface three or four rods wide. And forest trees entail only a small upkeep expense, increasing in beauty, dignity and usefulness by the mere lapse of time.

If long-distance travel by automobile is to be made a pleasure in summer for other than "scorchers" who do not mind being scorched, it must be made so by tree-lined highways. Trees may be planted at small expense. They should be included in construction contracts as a necessary part of roadmak-ing.

It is folly to neglect tree planting and to allow trees already standing to be mutilated by telephone companies or cut down by any owner of abutting property who chooses to attack them with the ax.
How grateful is every driver for the occasional stretch of shaded road! Yet where is there a well-organized propaganda in behalf of making the shaded road the rule instead of the rare exception?—Courier-Journal.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER MACHINES

Kerosene—A Key Word in International Harvester Engines

THE kerosene engine is here. Up to the present time the difficulties in the way of burning low-grade fuel in an engine cylinder have been too difficult to overcome. We have an International Harvester engine here which does away with all objections to kerosene as a fuel.

The reason for changing from gasoline to kerosene for engine fuel is one of economy. Gasoline as a fuel has many advantages, but is comparatively expensive and rapidly growing more so. The supply of kerosene is much greater and the price lower, therefore engineers have busied themselves with the production of a satisfactory kerosene engine, so that your power might not cost you so much money in the future as it has in the past.

Come in and see this engine run on kerosene. We start the engine on gasoline, run for a few minutes to warm the cylinder; then, by the turn of a valve, we switch to kerosene and the engine keeps on going.

REPORTS FINE CROPS.

Mr. R. H. Batson, who for the past two months has been attending to some of the arduous duties connected with his farm in Wayne County, Ill., returned home last Saturday. He tells his friends that he has been making a hand and has put in quite a number of days driving a mowing, as his tanned and sunburnt face would indicate. He reports fine crops, of oats, hay and corn. Mr. Batson looks the picture of
says, "It is the life."

COUNCIL FAVORS Municipal Ownership Of Light Plant.

At a meeting of the city council last night, it was shown that a majority of the board favors the city owning its own light plant and on motion, City Attorney, J. E. Robinson, was appointed to work out means in which ownership can be financed. It is the opinion of those that are in a position to know, that this can be done, and will prove popular to the patrons, for then we will have a twenty-four hour service at a very much cheaper rate than the present one.

BRASS BAND Organization Affected Tuesday Night With Twenty Members.

The musical talent for which Lancaster has long been noted, will no longer remain dormant since a brass band with twenty members was organized last Tuesday night. The band will be under the directorship of M. A.
Ogg, our local musician and will be supported by the best young talent in this city. The Central Record will be well represented in the persons of Mr.
L. N. Miller while he beats off the music on the snare drum and Jack Burnside, who can play anything from a corn stalk fiddle to a clarinet; he prefers the latter however and this instrument has been assigned him.

The band has honored Mr. J. S. Has-elden by naming the band for his cafe and it will be known as the "Puritan Band." They will meet for practice every Tuesday night in the room over the Puritan.

Below are some of the members who have had instruments assigned them:

Cornets: A. M. Ogg, W. S. Hopper, Noel Bogie, Clarionets: Chas. Doty, Jack Burnside. Trombones: Thurmon Teater, Storey Herron, B. Ford, Baritone: Jack Blandfield. Alto: A.
D. Kirk, William Kinnaird. Bass: J.
S. Haselden. Drums: (Snare) L. N.
Miller. (Bass) Harry Anderson.

DEMOCRATS MEET Saturday To Name Delegates To Platform Convention.

Pursuant to the call of the State Committees of the Democratic party, County Chairman J. I. Hamilton has issued a call for a mass convention to be held at the court house Saturday at which time 12 delegates will be selected to represent Garrard county at the state platform convention which will be held in Louisville next Tuesday, August 31st. Chairman Hamilton's official call for the convention here Saturday is as follows:

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF GAR-RARD COUNTY.

Pursuant to the call of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees made on the 14th day of August, 1915, the democrats of Garrard County are called to meet in mass convention at the Court house in Lancaster, at 1 o'clock p. m., Saturday, August 28th, for the purpose of selecting delegates to meet in Louisville on Tuesday, August 31st, to write a Democratic platform and declaration of principles for the coming November election.

All Democrats, all minors, who will be old enough to vote at the next election, and all independents who expect to support and will support the democratic nominees at the coming November election are expected and invited to participate in the mass convention.

J. I. HAMILTON,
Chm. Garrard County Democratic Executive Committee.

WOODENWARE IS GOING.

Substitutes In Use Because Timber Is Getting Scarce.

It may be said of the woodenware business, as of the French mobility during the French Revolution, that "its future lies behind it", for there are only the remains of a fine business in woodenware. The steadily decreasing supply of timber compared with the steadily increasing prices of all articles of wood has stirred the inventive genius of the makers of metal household things.

Tubs and pails and buckets are cases much in point. The old oaken bucket and the familiar washtub have been almost displaced by the galvanized steel articles that are much cheaper though not nearly so serviceable or lasting.

Glass rolling pins and glass lemon squeezers are crowding out those made of wood. The clothespin still holds its own. Wood bushel baskets are fast giving way to the galvanized steel baskets, and constant experiments are being made to find a satisfactory metal "container" in place of the wood nail keg, or the wood flour barrel, but so far without success.

The old wood coal oil barrel, painted green, has entirely given away to the corrugated galvanized steel article.

The painted metal fence post makes slow headway against the old-fashioned cedar post, but in this country, at least neither concrete nor metal railroad ties have proved as cheap or as economical as the oak or yellow pine or cypress tie especially if the wood tie be treated by the preservative process.

DUTY OF AMERICA.

Is To Be Prepared To Protect Lives Of Citizens, Says Garrison.

Under the title "Reasonable Preparation," Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, in the current issue of the Independent Magazine, sounds the keynote of an appeal for a rational scheme of national defense.

Mr. Garrison in his article quotes the arguments of the peace-at-any-price advocates who say the United States should set the example by leaving itself helpless to the nations of the world. He declares the history of the United States shows that this country during the 139 years of its existence has actually been setting this example.

"What is happening upon the continent of Europe," he writes, "does not seem to have been a happy outcome of the example any more than does what has just happened in the far East. Mr. Garrison says:

"How should the American people view the problem of nation defense?
Circumstances force this question upon our attention whether we will or not.
Every citizen worthy of his privileges must give it full and free consideration and not rest until it has been settled to his satisfaction. It is not merely a matter of selfish interest to each citizen though that aspect should enter into his consideration. A great nation like the United States of America owes a duty to its citizens in the protection of their lives and property, but it has also undertaken the solemn obligation of handing down unimpaired those principles of government which were obtained by the heroism and enlightened intelligence of our forefathers."

THE BUGGY IS PASSING.

Motor cycle and motor car are replacing the horse and buggy. Within the last decade so appreciably has the demand for buggies decreased that the manufacturers are endeavoring to arrive at some solution as to how to increase their sales in spite of the ever-growing desire for speeding along the country roads on motor cycles or in motor cars.

No longer do Agnes and John fancy the long, slow drive behind trusty horse; enjoying the beauty of springtime scenery and the fragrance of wild flowers and fresh, green meadows.

The present day girl has a liking for moving as rapidly as thing about her are moving, and so the fashionable Stanhope of a few years ago has lost its popularity. If John has the wherewithal he purchases a car, but if his savings are slow in reaching the required amount, he continues to save in the hope that good fortune will smile upon him within another year.

In the country communities particularly is the decrease in sales of buggies noticeable. The motor car has not entirely supplanted the buggy, for often a family will do without an extra conveyance waiting until they can afford a machine. Then in other cases where both a machine and buggy are owned the buggy lasts longer than formerly, because it is used only when the roads are too rough for a car.

The difference in price of the two equipments is steadily diminishing.
High price of feed and high price of horse, with a decreasing price for motor cars as the number on the market increases and the cost of manufacture decreases, bring the market price of the two closer together. A two-passenger car can now be bought for $350. A good horse will cost $200, or $250, a Standhope $90, and harness $25. Here we have an amount approaching $400. Feed will cost from $8, to $10, a month and for $15, if one understands his machine, a motor car's living expense can be kept up.

The young farmer looks upon these figures critically before deciding upon the purchase of a buggy. Perhaps in another year he can buy a machine and keep pace with his neighbors.

WATER TANK AND PUMPING STATION, KENTUCKY STATE FOREST NURSERY, LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

FOREST EXTENSION, STATE NURSERIES

Demand For Material at State Nurseries Shows That Kentucky People Are Beginning to Plant Trees As Well As Cut Them Down

Frankfort, Ky.—(Special)—It is patent to those individuals who have made a study of the matter that there are certain areas of Kentucky which are more valuable for the production of forests than for agriculture or pasture. In fact, there are certain areas which never will produce anything except timber crops. In order to encourage the planting of these areas to timber, and also encourage the planting of timber or worn out lands for regenerative purposes and to prevent erosion, the State Board of Forestry, early in its work, provided for two nurseries—one at Louisville (which is the larger) and one at Frankfort, which is hardly a year old at the present time. The nursery at Louisville was started early in the fall of 1913, and has been gradually increasing its capacity. Last fall the first sale of stock was made from the Louisville nursery, amounting to one thousand black locusts and one hundred catalpa seedlings. That such nursery supplies are wanted in the State is shown by the fact that, if available, at least ten thousand black locusts could have been sold and an indefinite number of other species. There is no doubt but what, as the existence and extent of the nursery is realized throughout the State, a large and continuous demand will spring up for seedlings and transplants which the State can furnish, since these seedlings will be sold at cost to individuals who desire them. The nursery will pay for itself in time and the cost of the stock will be reduced as the capacity of the nursery increases. At the present time there are considerably over six thousand transplants in the beds at the nursery at Louisville. The species which were planted in the Louisville nursery this spring

GATHERING TREE SEEDS

An Infant Industry in Kentucky. Developed by State Nurseries.

The experience in growing trees at the State nursery has shown very clearly that in a great many cases it is not possible to get tree seeds of the native species at the time and in the condition desired. Kentucky is peculiar in that up to very recently there has been no agency or individual interested in the gathering of tree seed in its borders. The demand for the tree seeds in the State nurseries at Louisville and Frankfort has started in a small way a new industry in the gathering of tree seeds within the State. Last year a considerable portion of the seed planted was obtained from Kentucky. Several small boys had become interested in this line of work and gathered a considerable quantity of seed of certain varieties. It is expected this fall that the bulk of the seed planted in the State nurseries will be obtained within the State from native varieties. The gathering of tree seed offers an attractive field for a limited number of individuals, particularly bright boys, who are willing to take the time and trouble necessary to distinguish tree species.

INTEREST IN SHADE TREES

State Forester Prepared to Answer Questions With Regard to Shade Trees.

With every passing year the interest of the citizens of Kentucky in the shade trees of the cities, towns and villages, along public highways and on private lands and estates has become more keen, for the reason that our people as a whole are gradually coming to an appreciation of the worth of individual trees and of tree communities from an aesthetic point of view, and are alive to their value as factors for health and comfort in the community. This is a natural development in line with an awakening public interest in parks, public playgrounds, better roads and highways and the development of attractive surroundings on the farm. In all this the trees play a very important part. Then, too, throughout the state the present shade trees, which are to a considerable extent remnants of the original forest, are decaying, deteriorating and dying. Their owners are interested most decidedly in their preservation, if possible.

were as follows: Box elder, white ash, blue ash, apple stock, apricot, American beech, buckeye, catalpa, chestnut, Kentucky coffee tree, wild cherry, sweet cherry, American elm, gingko, sweet gum, shell bark hickory, mockernut hickory, pignut hickory, black locust, sugar maple, red maple, cucumber magnolia, white oak, red oak, black oak, bur oak, pin oak, yellow poplar, black walnut, Japanese walnut.

There were sown in the Frankfort nursery twelve seed beds 24x4 feet with the following species: Chestnut, red oak, black walnut, pin oak, yellow poplar, shell bark hickory, sugar maple, white ash. Each spring and fall sees the capacity of the nurseries very materially increased.

The varieties which have been planted in the nurseries have been (with the exception of some species) confined almost entirely to native Kentucky trees of special commercial importance. Just what number of seedlings will be available this fall for distribution and sale it is impossible at this time to determine on account of the earliness of the season. The seed beds were very materially increased within the year. One feature of the nursery work at Louisville was the planting of one-half bushel of apple seed. It is eventually expected that the Louisville nursery will be able to furnish apple stock of standard variety to individuals around the State and that the orcharding which is becoming a feature of agriculture, work in Kentucky will in this way be materially assisted. Also the nursery is experimenting with varieties of walnuts, chestnuts, pecans and other nut trees which produce commercial orchards.

sible, and their replacement if this must be done. Again within recent years the increase of insect pests and fungus diseases due to the introduction of new species and varieties from foreign countries and the importation of European nursery stock has caused widespread comment. Insect infestations among our tree friends, a condition which has been emphasized by the lack of natural enemies to keep them in check and a notable decrease in our native birds that prey on insects, have been of frequent occurrence. In cities the paving of streets, construction of sidewalks, laying of sewers and gas and water mains, conduits for electric light, telephone and telegraph wires all have very seriously disturbed natural conditions and endangered the life of the shade trees. While it is realized that the care and protection of shade trees is not strictly within the province of forestry, yet requests for information in this direction have continually come to the office of the State Forester.

The State Forester is prepared to answer inquiries for information by mail with regard to shade trees—particularly what species to plant, the injuries and diseases to which they are subject, and to offer remedies for these. The First Biennial Report of the State Forester deals with this subject of shade trees in detail and may be obtained free of charge by addressing him at Frankfort.

EXPERIMENTAL FOREST.

Permanent Exhibit at the State Fair in Louisville.

In conjunction with the forest nursery at Louisville, there is being established an experimental forest which will also be a permanent exhibit in connection with the State Fair. It is expected in this experimental forest to show on a small scale what may be done on any farm in Kentucky in the way of raising wood material, and will be of undoubted interest to farmers and others who have already wood lots on their land or expect to plant them either for the material or for the purpose of soil fixation and regeneration. This forest will be situated on the bank of the Ohio river, and, in addition to furnishing a demonstration of what can be done in the way of practical forestry, it will also afford a wind-break for the state nursery, and will serve to hold the bank of the Ohio river in its present place.

BLACK WALNUT, CHESTNUT AND RED OAK SEEDLINGS, FRANKFORT NURSERY

All these species are excellent commercial species and relatively fast growing varieties. All furnish timber which will be as valuable fifty years from now as to-day. Walnut is in especial demand at the present time for gun stocks on account of the Great European War.

WALNUT SEEDLINGS, KY. STATE FOREST NURSERY

Black Walnut is one of the most available species for general planting in Kentucky and is valuable for a large number of uses.

BLACK LOCUST SEEDLINGS, KY. STATE FOREST NURSERY

Black Locust has many advantages for planting. It grows fast, is durable in contact with the soil, and is valuable for soil regeneration and fixation.

RED OAK SEEDLINGS AT FRANKFORT NURSERY

Red Oak is the fastest growing of American Oaks. It is particularly valuable on this account as a shade tree along streets and roads or on lawns. It is also desirable on account of its brilliant coloring in autumn and the fact that it is not especially subject to insect attacks. The Red Oak also furnishes a valuable commercial timber and is especially recommended for planting in commercial plantations.

FOREST TAXATION

One of the most important factors in connection with the growing of trees for commercial purposes is the matter of taxation, and this is a matter which so far as Kentucky is concerned, has had little attention. In the first place, there is no classification of land within the State for taxation purposes. It is a generally accepted theory among experts in this matter at the present time that there is only one fair method of taxation which may be applied to land maintained by the owner in forest growth and that is that there should be a tax placed on the land which shall be an annual tax, and another tax placed on the forest crop when it is harvested. In no other manner does it seem probable that reforestation of suitable areas throughout the State may be accomplished, since in the first place, on account of the character of the investment the owner of the land must be assured before hand just what his taxes on the land are to be, and in the second place the risks attendant upon the raising of a forest crop, because of the long period of years before it reaches maturity, make it essential that the crop of forest products shall be taxed at maturity when it is harvested, rather than that an annual tax shall be imposed. Certain States have already gone a long way in this direction and Pennsylvania has recently passed three laws dealing with the matter of forest taxation and the classification of forest land which embrace the best features of recent thought on this subject. The essentials of the recent Pennsylvania laws are as follows:

1. Classification of suitable land set aside by the owner for forest purposes as auxiliary forest reserves.
  2. Agreement with the State to maintain such land in forest growth and penalties for failure to carry out agreement.
  3. Assessment of land classified as auxiliary forest reserves at $1.00 per acre annual tax.
  4. Payment by owner of 10 per cent of the value of the forest products when harvested to the county to be distributed among the proper county funds.
  5. Fixed charge on auxiliary forest reserve land of two cents per acre for schools and two cents per acre for roads.
- Under these provisions it is obvious that the growing of timber on suitable areas would be reduced to a practical business basis.

TREE PLANTING ALONG PUBLIC ROADS

Remarkable Development of Good Roads Sentiment in Kentucky Has Created a Demand For Shade Trees Along the Roads

The last year in Kentucky has seen a wonderful agitation for good roads throughout the State and at the present time a large number of highways are being constructed under the State aid plan. There is no doubt but what the number of good roads in Kentucky will increase each year. The construction of good roads and the standardization of roads has created a demand for shade trees along the rights of way to beautify them. In anticipation of this demand the State Forester is paying particular attention to the raising at the State nurseries at Louisville and Frankfort trees particularly adapted for planting along the public highways. A good many species have been suggested and one idea which seems to have a firm root in the public mind and which may undoubtedly lead to a great deal of good in the community is the planting of nut bearing and fruit trees along the roads. It is felt that in this way the trees along the highways could be made to produce a product of sufficient value to aid in the maintenance of the road. This has been successfully done in several instances, particularly in Europe. With this end in view the State Forester has been experimenting with a large number of nut trees of different varieties including pecan, hickory, black walnut, English walnut and others. Also the growing of apple trees and other fruit trees along the road is a suggestion which meets with a great deal of favorable comment and the nursery at Louisville has undertaken the growing of apple stock on a large scale.

PRESERVE FOREST LANDS

Forest Conservation Concerns Both City and Farm.

Many dwellers in towns and cities feel great interest in forestry and would be glad to give active aid to the cause. Some are doing so by the improvement of forest lands which they own, but there are greater numbers who are not able to do this but who greatly desire to enjoy the forests and to help along any movement tending to their improvement. The preservation of forests for natural scenery, to check the winds and hold back the waters; to stop erosion of valuable farm lands; to harbor birds and animals; to produce materials for building and manufacturing are matters which concern city people as well as those who dwell on farms.

The obligation to protect the forests rests upon all and the opportunity to enjoy them should be enjoyed by all. Cities should own forest parks in which the design should be to get away from the conventional and costly style of landscape gardening now so common in city parks.

Such parks, if made as natural as possible, would cost far less to establish and maintain than other parks and would help to arouse an interest in forestry and to show its practicality. They would afford means of recreation and study, supplementing the courses in school. If the agricultural experiment stations in the different states were enabled to co-operate in the establishment and maintenance of such forest parks, the arrangement would no doubt be mutually helpful, since the work would be started along forestry rather than ornamental lines and its permanency would be reasonably sure.

Forest conservation to many people means the saving of mature trees and nothing more. Real conservation takes into account all that is of value, also that which has a potential value. Correct ideas, regarding values of forest products need an entire reconstruction, as upon a proper conception of what constitutes the most essential part of a forest rests the fundamental doctrine of conservation. To save that which is worth but little and to waste that which is full of possibilities shows wrong ideas regarding values, but examples of this kind are very common. Almost every one appreciates the worth of a large oak, walnut or pine tree, but to most people a seedling of the same species is nothing but a weed. It seems hard for any one, who has not studied the rate of growth of trees, to realize that a mature tree makes but little growth and is worth saving only as long as it remains sound, while a thrifty young tree is growing into value at a rapid rate. But little that is really worth while will be done in the care of our timber trees until we come to realize that forest conservation means the saving of trees of all ages and sizes. However, it is gratifying to note that the interest in forestry is growing constantly and that the number of trees planted each year is increasing.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow
This Lancaster Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills is a good remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has acted effectively in many cases in Lancaster. Follow the advice of a Lancaster citizen.

Frank Hibbard, Water St., Lancaster, says: "I had weak kidneys and their action was irregular and often painful. My back pained me and it was then that I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They fixed me up in good shape. The pains left and my kidneys became normal."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hibbard had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Misses Cora Roop, Mary Carter and Lena Holton were visiting in Berea last Sunday.

Miss Mary Carter who is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Roop has been very sick.

Denver, the little son of Dr. G. S. Redwine, is suffering intensely with tuberculosis of the bone.

Miss Effie Dawson of Cottontown has been visiting relatives here for a month but returned home Monday.

Mr. Charlie Pennington of Harrison Ohio, has returned to his home after a very pleasant visit here.

Did you know that Hudson, Hughes and Farnau sell the highest grade seed wheat, rye and barley. See them, 3t

Rev. F. P. Bryant and Rev. W. H. Bryant will begin a protracted meeting at White Lick Baptist church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Pennington and Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Redwine are proud parents of sons born Sunday, August 22nd.

Rev. Van Winkle has been conducting a series of meetings at Leavel Green Church. Rain interfered with attendance to some extent.

Lightning destroyed a large tobacco barn containing a large quantity of wheat, hay and farming implements, belonging to Clarence Green last Saturday.

The County Sunday School Convention held Wednesday was well attended and quite a success. Mr. Louis Van Winkle rendered an excellent solo and ten little girls made their first public appearance in a special song.

Mr. George A. Carter who has been ill in the Lexington Sanatorium since June 1914. The body was brought here and buried Monday. Three daughters and two sons are left without a father care or a mother's love, his wife having died several years ago. They have our sympathy and we can only point to the only true Comforter in this bereavement as the one who can heal their wounded hearts.

School is progressing nicely at this place with Mr. E. E. Estridge and Miss Lenna Hallon as teachers. The enrollment is the highest recorded. Our new school house is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever". It has two large, well lighted class rooms, two cloak rooms and a large porch. A cistern has been made by the porch so every thing is convenient and pleasant. We have one of the best, if not the best rural school buildings in the county. Our trustee, Mr. C. S. Roop, is interested and enthusiastic and has his eyes open for our needs and anything to help us. He is also chairman of this division and has already visited a number of the schools finding that they have a good beginning.

STOPS SCALP ITCH AND FALLING HAIR.

People whose hair looks dull and lifeless and who find it growing dry, brittle, splitting at ends and coming out fast at every combing need a genuine scalp invigorator and should get one without a day's delay. A little Parisian Sage rubbed briskly into the scalp with the finger tips twice daily will work wonders for hair of this kind. Just a few days' use and the hair becomes glossy and healthy looking, dandruff vanishes, scalp stops itching and hair stops falling out. Parisian Sage is more than a hair tonic. It is a scalp treatment and its use means strong, beautiful hair and a healthy scalp. R. E. McRoberts and leading druggists everywhere sell Parisian Sage. It is not expensive.

ANNUAL MEETING OF AMERICAN PLOWMEN

National Farmers' Union Renders Unselfish Service to Agriculture.

By Peter Radford.

The National Farmers' Union will hold its annual convention in Lincoln Nebraska, on September seventh, and will round out the eleventh year of its activities in the interest of the American plowman. When that convention is called to order every farmer in America should pause and bow his head in honor of the men gathered there to render a patriotic and unselfish service to agriculture. That organization, born in the cotton fields of Texas, has grown until geographically it covers almost the whole of the United States and economically it deals with every question in which the welfare of the men who bare their backs to the summer sun are involved. It has battled for a better marketing system, rural credits, cheap money, diversification, scientific production, agricultural legislation and has carried on its work of education and co-operation in season and out.

The Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America brings the question of organization squarely before every farmer in this nation. Without organization the farmers can neither help themselves nor be helped by others and through organization and systematic effort all things are possible.

The farmers of the United States contribute more and get less from government than any other class of business. They have better securities and pay a higher rate of interest than any other line of industry. They market more products and have less to say in fixing the price than any other business and they get more political buncombe and less constructive legislation than any other class of people. The farmers can only acquire such influence in business, in government and in economics as will enable them to share equitably the fruits of their labor through organization and every farmer on American soil who desires to help himself and his fellow plowmen should rally around the Union.

POLITICAL GOSSIPS

When one class of people has anything to say, it has become largely the custom to make a political issue out of it instead of a friendly discussion, to print it in a law book instead of a newspaper and to argue it before a jury instead of to settle it in the higher courts of Common Sense. As a result, political agitators, political lawyers, political preachers and masculine women are powerful in politics and dissension, selfishness, intolerance and hysterics run rampant in public affairs, for when the low, damp, murky atmosphere of misunderstanding envelops public thought it breeds political reptiles, vermin, bugs and lice which the pure air of truth and the sunshine of understanding will choke to death.

We have too many self-appointed interpreters of industry who are incapable of grasping the fundamental principles of business and who at best can only translate gossip and add color to sensational stories. No business can stand upon error and might rules—right or wrong. No industry can thrive upon misunderstanding, for public opinion is more powerful than a King's sword.

When prejudice, suspicion and class hatred prevail, power gravitates into the hands of the weak, for demagogues thrive upon dissension and statesmen sicken upon strife.

The remedy lies in eliminating the middleman—the political gossip—this result can be accomplished by the managers of business sitting around the table of industry and talking it over with the people. Interchange of information between industries and the people is as necessary to success in business as interchange in commodities, for the people can only rule when the public understands. Away with political interpreters who summon evil spirits from their prison cells and loose them to prey upon the welfare of the people in the name of "My Country."

PHILIP

Philip, the Macedonian king, while drowsy with wine was trying a case and the prisoner after sentence was pronounced, exclaimed, "I appeal." "And to whom do you appeal?" Inquired the astonished monarch. "I appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober," replied the prisoner, and the king granted the request and at a rehearing gave the prisoner his liberty.

The people drowsy with the wine of discord oftentimes pronounce a verdict on public questions which they reverse in their more calm and deliberate moments. The next best thing to making no mistakes is to correct them.

Census of American Birds.
A recent national bird census gives about twelve hundred birds to the square mile, or nearly two to an acre. About one-tenth of all the birds were English sparrows.

A Church Census.
Two hundred and twenty thousand American churches served as auditoriums for 170,000 clergymen during 1914. The congregations are estimated to have totaled 40,000,000.

Should Suspend Judgment.
A Detroit woman in suing for divorce because her husband threw money at her. This is one of the cases where the nation should suspend judgment until all the details are made known.—Youngstown Telegram.

Grieving Cow Adopts Eight Lambs.
The maternal affection of a cow at the Morton sheep company's ranch, near Douglas, Wyo., has been satisfied by the adoption of eight motherless lambs. The cow grieved when she lost her calf, but her new family appears to please her greatly.

Too Tame to Hunt.
In Sefton a fox which had been released as game for the hunters proved too tame. It refused to run from the dog that was released against it, but ran up to one of the hunters, who took pity on it and picked it up.—Boston Globe.

George W. Crawford, of Lincoln county, bought of J. W. Baughman, of the same county, last week, a pair of two-year-old mules for $285.

Experiments made at various experimental stations show that rye meal ranks a little below corn meal as a feed for hogs. It is not deemed advisable to feed rye alone to hogs but in combination with other grains and milk and preferably as a thin slop as the dry meal forms a sticky paste in the pig's mouth. Topping down the rye in the field is considered to be the best way of feeding this crop to hogs.

The K. P. Fair last week was only held two days on account of so much rain. The last day was declared off until Saturday after the hard storm Thursday night, but Saturday was just as bad, so it was decided by the officers of the association, that it was best to declare the fair over. There was a splendid display of stock on the ground, and what promised to be one of the greatest fair ever held in Lincoln Co. was blasted on account of the rain.

People One "Runs Across."

"I don't like people I run across—women, especially. I should be a nervous ghost by this time if I had stopped to like people. Fancy all one's chance encounters, turning into pulls on one's affection—like the ropes the Lilliputians tied round Gulliver. If I had been Gulliver, I should have gone mad. I'd rather be tied with one stout steel cable than with a million threads."—Scribner's Magazine.

Enchanted Valparaiso.

The night view of Valparaiso from the balconies of the cliff dwellers is one of the great sights of the world. The vast sickle of the shore lit for nearly two hundred thousand people, the scores of ocean vessels lying at anchor, the harbor lights, the glowing avenues below from which rise mellowed the roar of nocturnal traffic, the rippling water under the moonlight and the far horizon of the illimitable Pacific produce an effect of enchantment.—Edward Elsworth Ross "South of Panama."
